Award Guidelines for Societal Innovation Award of the Year 2012

Introduction

National Research Development Corporation (NRDC) aims to promote innovative scientific endeavor in the country by encouraging and rewarding innovations that have positively impact on our lives and have at their core a great idea coupled with a unique insight. The awards are given to recognize individuals or groups who have innovated for the benefit of the society.

The Corporation has instituted these tax-free Societal Innovation Awards for scientific and technical personnel and industrial workers, technicians, artisans and craftsmen in order to stimulate the spirit of inventiveness among them and encourage them to apply their skills to facilitate the development of new ideas and innovations. The prime objective of this scheme is to recognize the creative talent among individuals or groups that could be harnessed for the benefit of society.

The Corporation awards annually to Indian nationals working in India for their excellence in original innovative work in the field of science and technology. The applications for these awards are invited by the Corporation every year on behalf of Department of Scientific and Industrial Research (DSIR), Ministry of Science and Technology, Government of India. These applications are evaluated and reviewed by a panel of experts and specialists. The innovations that are new process/product resulting from transformation of creative ideas/know how or resources, accruing benefits to the society meet the eligibility criteria. Each award carries a trophy, certificate and tax-free cash award.

Selection Procedure

The Awards are given annually as per the recommendations of the Prize Award Committee comprising of eminent scientists, technologists and specialists in diverse areas of science and technology. The applications received by the Corporation would be referred to a panel of experts comprising of eminent scientists, technologists and specialists working in Government organizations, research organizations, educational institutions and corporates for evaluation. The names and opinion of these experts are kept strictly confidential.
